PIPE DREAMS.

When I was digging ditches, I used to long for riches; I thought that I'd be happy if I had coin to burn; I saw the wealthy speeding along the road unheeding; they blew in more for stogies than I knew how to earn. When I was loading gravel, I longed and longed to travel, to scoot in palace coaches, or sail across the sea. I said: "I have to labor like thunder while my neighbor is blowing in his bundle, as busy as a bee." And now with wealth I'm loaded; alas! it seems corroded; it doesn't seem to glitter the way it ought to do; my life is soft and easy, but I am fat and wheezy; I spend my days in yawning, and I am tired and blue. It's tiresome to be wealthy; it's better to be healthy, with springing, active muscles, no spavins on your legs; I wish that I could travel back to the days of gravel, when I could eat a bushel of good old ham and WALT MASON. ## ADVERTISING TALKS.

WRITTEN BY WILLIAM C. FREEMAN.

I had the privilege during election time of listening to an interesting discussion between some prominent New York business men on the subject of the relative value of SPEECH MAKING and ADVERTISING IN PO-LITICAL CAMPAIGNS.

The opinion was expressed by the president of one of the biggest manufacturing concerns in the country that the voters were not influenced in the least by the SPELLBINDERS employed by the several political parties-he thought they were TOO INTEL-LIGENT not to be able to form THEIR OWN CONCLU-SIONS as to how they would

His belief, openly expressed, was that if all political parties employed the advertising columns of newspapers to state their case, the result desired could be obtained at LESS EXPENSE and LESS FUSS and MORE SAT-ISFACTION to everybody concerned.

It seemed to be the general impression that DIGNIFIED POLITICAL ADVERTIS-ING is bound to become the MIGHTIEST FORCE in campaigns. In some States during the last election, particularly in the larger communities, a considerable amount of newspaper publicity, PAID FOR AND LABELED as ADVERTISING, appeared and was most effective. In Atlanta, for instance, the newspapers printed a series of political advertisements on the mayoralty question that won the election for the candidate whom the best people in that city wanted as mayor. The funds for this campaign were contributed by some of the progressive merchants of the town who wanted the city's affairs managed as a business institution is managed, and the advertisements were written by a clever advertising man who donated his services to the cause. I also noticed in the exchanges that come to my desk political advertisements for candidates in different sections of the country, who took this method of enlightening the people on their attitude on public questions, and I am informed by newspaper friends in several States that all of this advertising proved not only immensely popular, but TREMENDOUSLY EFFEC-TIVE.

Isn't it the logical thing to do? Why waste money on brass bands and halls and cart-end speakers and parades and red fire, and a few of the other ordinary accompaniments of a political campaign? Isn't it good business to eliminate the hot air and print facts and let the voters decide for themselves?

NAVAL DEBATE AT OTTAWA. Conservatives Fear Cost Will Reach

$20,000,000 a Year. Ottawa, Nov. 28.-If the Canadian navy ever really comes into existence it will never participate in a warmer action than that now going on in relation to it on the floor of the House of Commons. Dr. Sproule, a Conservative member, to-day, in moving his party's amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, referred to the proposed navy in the most sarcastic terms. As planned, he said the navy would cost the people of Canada $10,000,000 a year, and would rapidly amount up in cost to $20,000,000 or $30,000,000 a year. "It is no wonder," he said, "that the people of the country are reluctant to be mitted to a navy of which they know nothing. They have never been allowed to say whether they are satisfied or not. This proposed navy could never catch the greatest lubber that ever sailed the high seas. I think it will be the greatest laughing stock of the whole world.

Dr. Sproule and his partisans desire plebiscite on the navy question, but Mr. Paterson, the minister of customs, called the attention of the House to the facthat a year ago Dr. Sproule friends were all for a direct cash con-tribution of $25,000,000 to Great Britain for the purchase of two dreadnoughts, and this without consulting the people.
